BANKERS' GUARANTEE FUND LIFE ASSOCIATION.

Richmond Terminal One of the Leaders in the Advance on the Stock Exchange Yesterday.

Cotton About 7 Points Lower on a Disappointing Government Report—Wheat Active but Lower.

NEW YORK, September 10.—While today's market was a narrow one, the reactions were decidedly firmer, the result of orders on the part of the small operators to cover contracts put out last week. London bought small amounts of St. Paul, Northern Pacific, and Union Pacific, and other low-price stocks, and thus added to the discounting of the smaller stocks. At the start the market ruled irregular and there was a disposition to sell Rock Island and Burlington. These stocks were affected by special cases. In the case of the former it was again asserted that the company intended to cut its dividend. In the case of the latter, the rumor was in the air, refused to express any opinion about the matter. The directors are to act the latter end of the month. Burlington, however, was induced by the rumors that the September government report would show the condition of corn to be only 50 percent. A considerable short interest has been made on this theory. The official report given out after business hours today shows the average of corn to be fully ten points above this estimate. It remains to be seen how the shorts will take this development tomorrow. The weakness of the Granger stocks was short-lived and in a little while the whole list scored advances of 1/4 to 1/2 percent. American Union, the Grangers, Louisville and Nashville, Missouri Pacific, Northern Pacific, preferred, Richmond Terminal, Atchafalpa and Reading leading. There was some favorable influence at work, the most important being semi-official statements that the Western Union, St. Paul and American Sugar companies will declare their usual dividends this week and that the Erie-Oleott committee were making decided progress in their efforts to reorganize the Reading road. In the afternoon, however, the market was again unsettled, and in the day, and this started a rumor that the dividend rate will not be maintained after all. The break in sugar caused a reaction in the cotton market. The latter, however, was not affected, and the market ruled steady. The general market closed easier. Net changes show gains of 1/4 to 1/2 percent, the latter in Western Union, American Sugar and St. Paul.

The sales of listed stocks aggregated 90,179 shares, and unlisted stocks, 40,224 shares. Treasury balances: Gold, $75,494,000; currency, $65,094,000. Money on call easy at 1 percent; bank loan at 1, closing offered at 1. Prime mercantile paper, 4 1/2 percent.

Sterling exchange weak, with actual business in bankers' bills at $1.85 1/2 for 60 days, and $1.85 1/4 for 90 days; commercial bills, $1.86 1/4 for 60 days, and $1.86 1/2 for 90 days. Government bonds steady. State bonds dull. Railroad bonds higher. Silver at the board was dull.

FOUR WEEKS TO PLAY

The Angier-Randegger Case Will Not Be Heard Saturday.

MR. DOUGLAS GETS FOUR WEEKS LEAVE

And the Injunction Case Will Not Be Heard Until After That Time Expires.

Signor Randegger will have at least four more weeks in which to play when and where he chooses.

There will be no hearing of the case next Saturday morning, which is the time set for the final hearing of the injunction. Mr. Hamilton Douglas is the legal representative of Signor Randegger.

As is well known, the injunction was originally set for a hearing on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Preparations for a trial were made at that time, as Mr. Angier, the plaintiff, was anxious that a hearing be had as early as possible, in consideration of the fact that he claimed to be suffering constant financial damage from the competition of Signor Randegger, whom he had arrested and given a splendid local reputation.

But Mr. Hamilton Douglas was not quite ready for trial, and, being busily engaged with pressing business matters, he quietly went before Judge Lumpkin and secured a four weeks' leave of absence. So it will occur on Saturday morning when the case is sounded that the docket will show that Mr. Douglas has a leave.

In the meantime, Signor Randegger is free to make music wherever and whenever his sweet will willeth. He is at present engaged at Miss Thornbury's school, and is doing very well, indeed. He is going his way, apparently entirely indifferent to the threatened injunction which hangs over his head.

Mr. Douglas has not yet filed his answer to the bill of Mr. Angier, and will not do so in several weeks yet. But when the bill comes it will not be bad reading by any means. The public will be told about the contract between Signor Randegger and Mr. Angier from the signor's point of view, and it may be quite lively.

It is not known upon what Signor Randegger will base his action in breaking his contract with Mr. Angier. It is very likely that the ground that he was not of age when the contract was signed will be put forward; but, in rebuttal to this, Mr. Angier has a letter from the young man's father, agreeing to the contract and thoroughly approving it in every particular.

As to the case, Signor Randegger has nothing whatever to say. He says he is acting under the directions of his attorney, Mr. Douglas, and prefers to make no utterance concerning the merits of the suit until he gets in court.

The signor is the possessor of an extremely interesting personality. He is barely twenty-one yet, and is boyish to a degree. He is quite striking in appearance, and would be picked out as a musician in any crowd. He wears his hair after the style of great musicians, and his eyes, as well as every other feature of his face, are as modest as a school girl.

He speaks English, but imperfectly, and on this account experiences no small embarrassment. But he is quite determined on this course of saying nothing, and it may be put down as a fact that he will say nothing until the proper time arrives.

Pandora's Box

The beautiful story of Mythology
Finds a counterpart
In the real life of today.

IN THE realms of mythological legend Pandora holds the place of honor. She it was who held in her possession the gifts vouchsafed to the inhabitants of the earth. The gods all sought her favor, but Prometheus alone—he who plucked from heaven the fire to illumine the earth—was able to procure for himself the invaluable boon of her good graces.

Who would not be a Prometheus?

Pandora had in her time "a corner" on knowledge. She still holds that corner, and it is called, in the practical language of today, the Encyclopædia Britannica.

There is nothing mean about Pandora. When she has "a corner" she does not put up the price and say, "Those who want must pay." On the contrary, through her agent, The Constitution, she now offers all her gifts of knowledge to any who will but strive for them. Within the Encyclopædia Britannica, the Pandora's Box of the nineteenth century, is all the knowledge of the world, condensed and classified so that he who runs may read, and he who reads may know.

Who would not be a Prometheus of the present? It will cost you but 10 cents a day to gain that distinction, for that will buy the new Edition Encyclopædia Britannica, in any style of binding you may select. But do not forget that this is an introductory offer, and is simply for the purpose of getting this new edition before the people. Write for sample pages to The Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia, and apply for a set at introductory rates.

14 acres fronting 756 feet front on the Central railroad, this side Hapeville depot, seven miles from center of Atlanta; the whole tract perfect in shape, level; shade in front; main country road along the line between the tract and the Central railroad; fine bearing apple orchard covers the tract, except where the large oaks and buildings stand; the tract is well watered; convenient to business and schools; good schools and churches and fine society there. The fourteen acres admirably situated and suited for subdivision in lots. We sold adjacent property in the spring of this year at auction for about $600 per acre, and this is far more beautiful, and we can sell it for $450 per acre. Six or seven most charming sites for homes, each with lovely front yard and middle, can be made here, and as many persons could form for themselves a delightful little colony here in addition to the good neighbors already about it. ## READY FOR WATER

The United States Court opens on the First Monday in October.

FATHER AND SON TO BE TRIED.

The case against the Ballows, a Number of Moonshiners to Be Tried—The Douglasville Demonstration.

The full term of the United States court begins on the first Monday in October and from the present indications, Judge Newman will have his hands full.

The two Ballows, father and son, charged with violating the pension laws, will be the first tried. The charges against the defendants are familiar. It is claimed that in collecting a pension from the government they kept the bulk of the proceeds in their possession and gave their client only a fractional part of the sum collected.

A. W. and Hunter Ballow are practicing attorneys at Rome, Ga. The trial of the case will no doubt attract considerable attention.

Mr. Camp Is Busy.
Mr. C. D. Camp, the clerk in the district attorney's office, was surrounded by a large pile of legal documents yesterday afternoon.

"I am getting the docket ready for the full term of the court," said he, "and these papers represent a few of the cases to be tried. You see the case papers? They are well, nearly all of them are against moonshiners. We have more of them on the docket this fall than usual. As soon as the Ballows case is tried, we will have the case of the moonshiners and this will occupy the court for nearly a month."

"How many cases are ready for the grand jury to investigate?"

"About two hundred and fifty. Others are rapidly coming in, however, and by the 1st of October the number will be increased to 300."

No Interest in the Paper.
The district attorney was rather indignant
yesterday afternoon over certain charges
which appeared in the popular paper concerning the ownership of The Douglasville
New South.

"I have no interest in the paper," said Colonel James, "and am not connected with it, either directly or indirectly. I did have a small interest in it a few weeks ago, but I paid no attention to it and made no contributions to the paper. Mr. John T.
Duncan, of Douglasville, owned the paper
before it was sold to the present owner, and including the subscription list and all,
to L. P. Barnes and C. O. Peavy. They now own and operate the paper. I have no control of the paper whatever and no right to dictate its policy, and any statement to the effect that I own and control it or hire any person to write for it in my own behalf or against any other party is absolutely and knowingly false. I shall answer all these charges at Thomson, Ga., next Wednesday and shall challenge any one of the opposite party to deny the truth."

In a milder strain the district attorney
next changed the current of conversation towards the big demonstration at Douglasville, Ga., next Saturday.

"We are going to have an old-time barbecue," said he, with a smile, "and Douglasville is going to show her royal highness taking care of the stranger with her gate. It will be the biggest democratic outpouring since the war and the crowd on the streets will be the largest to proclaim the eternal truths of democracy."

Colonel James went on to say that a hundred dinner and breakfast tables for people of Douglasville—enough to supply 2,000 visitors. Fourteen heaves and a lot of mutton, and 1,400 loaves of bread, had been subscribed. The barbecue will be held Thursday morning. Judge Crisp, Colonel L. B.erner, Captain E. P. Hewell, Congressman Oates and Colonel L. P. Livingston will be among the speakers next Saturday.
A large delegation of people will go down from Atlanta next Saturday morning. Hundreds will also pour into Douglasville from Julius, Newnan, Powder Springs, Villa Rica, Carrollton, Tallapoosa and all the surrounding country.

Mr. Colquitt Carter Back.
Mr. Colquitt Carter, the popular and handsome clerk of the United States court,
has returned from a visit to the old home in Murray county. Instead of going the other way, he preferred to spend his summer vacation among the restful shades and more picturesque surroundings of the place.
He was absent from the city for about a month and was accompanied on his trip by Mr. Burrill Sanders and Mr. Walter T. Colquitt.

Twenty-three cases of ammonia poisoning in a single year is a dismal record. Ammonia is used for cleaning purposes, for baking powders. No trace of ammonia or other adulterant in Dr. Price's "most perfect" made.

TOOK OFF TWO HEADS

Patrolmen Kelly and Hawes Discharged by the Board of Police Commissioners.

MR. HAWES FEELS THE BOOMERANG.

He Makes Serious Charges Against a Fellow Officer and Is Surprised to Find Himself in the Same Fix.

The official heads of two well-known patrolmen were chopped off by the board of police commissioners at their regular meeting yesterday afternoon.

Patrolman Hawes was not a little astonished at his demotion. Patrolman Kelly retired smilingly for he had already decided that there were other jobs more pleasant than the arduous duties of a policeman.

Patrolman Hawes was not the only one surprised at the action of the board. It was entirely unexpected. His companions heard the news and walked away more than ever impressed with the idea that the policeman's position has a string tied to it. When Patrolman Hawes walked into the room to make official testimony before the board concerning the report he had made to Chief Connolly accusing his fellow officer of falling asleep while on duty, there was an air of confident assurance in his manner. This had not decreased when he finished his statement, for he knew that his testimony was effective, and he smiled triumphantly. But when the news came to him that he also had been dismissed it came like a thunder clap.

On the night of June 29th both the men tried before the commissioners yesterday afternoon were on duty on Pulliam street. It was a disagreeable night, warm and sultry—just the kind of weather to make a man who had been tramping for six hours feel drowsy and stupid. Patrolman Kelly was sick and the sharp, neuralgic pains darting through his head made him fly to Morpheus for relief. There was a convenient wall nearby and the exhausted patrolman backed up comfortably against it. He closed his eyes for a few moments. Patrolman Hawes was doing duty on the same beat that night. During the first part of the night the officers had tramped together, but for some cause they had separated. The hours passed and Patrolman Hawes missed the cheerful countenance of his partner. He pulled out his whistle and blew. No reply came. He blew louder and longer—still no reply. Then the patrolman decided to make a search and after a short walk found his running mate, snugly ensconced in the shadows of the wall. Patrolman Kelly wonders now why Hawes did not arouse him, but this was not done, and the patrolman walked away, leaving his companion to his slumbers, where he remained until just before the hour for relief.

In the blue laws of the police board there is a paragraph which strictly requires members of the force to report immediately any breach of duty which they observe on the part of their fellow officers. This law is rigid and the action yesterday shows that the commissioners fully determine to adhere rigidly to it.

Patrolman Hawes did not make any report to Chief Connolly the day after he caught Patrolman Kelly asleep, nor the day after that. In fact, weeks passed and still no report was made. But the secret weighed heavily on his heart and on the morning of the 10th of August he woke up with the sudden determination to tell all he knew about the matter before the board of police commissioners. When he came to the station house, he walked into the office of his chief and entered a formal report against Kelly. That afternoon an order was issued suspending Kelly for ten days, and this was followed the next day by another giving him an extended vacation until the next meeting of the board.

That meeting was called yesterday afternoon and Patrolman Hawes was summoned to state what he knew about the matter. He stated that Patrolman Kelly was discharged thereby. Another motion was in order and it was decided unanimously that Patrolman Hawes had delayed too long in making the report. This morning his accommodations will be turned over to a supernumerary.

In defense of his case Patrolman Kelly said that he was very sick and he brought in the certificate of his physician to show that he had been ill. Patrolman Hawes pleaded ignorance of the laws. The commissioners overruled both statements. After the dismissal of the officers the monthly report of Chief Connolly was read. In this report the chief complimented highly the detective department in their work on the gambling dives and in doing good work in the various burglar cases.

Neither legitimate competition nor envious rivalry can shake the hold of Dr. Price's Baking Powder on the public.
